

Strike threat called 'propaganda'

Though confronted with a "disruptive to education" strike statement by the Romulus Education Association (REA), a school district official today branded the threat as being "propaganda."

James M. Garfield, assistant superintendent in charge of the district's personnel department, reiterated that the Romulus school board and administration would "see that school starts on schedule" next Wednesday.

The "disruptive" strike threat was made in a statement released by the REA, in which the teacher unit claims the Romulus board "refuses to negotiate on fair and reasonable REA proposals."

AT THE SAME time, the REA, citing a stalemate condition in the talks, warned:

"The teachers walked out of mediation last Friday ...after requesting the mediation." -- Assistant Superintendent Garfield

"...a conflict, traditionally disruptive to education, is inevitable."

Garfield said the disruptive change sounds "like propaganda put out by the state-wide Michigan Education Association."

Members of the REA are scheduled to meet tonight for a status report on the present school talks, and possible action on a strike vote.

David Ferdon, chief negotiator, for the teachers, claims the Romulus board and its bargaining representatives are following the recommendations of the Wayne County Task Force 36, a coalition of Wayne County school boards.

THE REA spokesman charges that the "task force" was organized "for the apparent purpose of maintaining job security teachers have taken eight years to gain in negotiations."

Ferdon also alleges that the Romulus board and its negotiators discouraged effective negotiations until August — instead of negotiating for a settlement in June.

Continuing, Ferdon claims the Romulus board has refused to devote adequate time to negotiate until the present time and has not recognized the cost of living factor in contract salary discussion.

In response, Garfield said: "The teachers walked out of mediation last Friday...after requesting the mediation."

OTHER TEACHER charges lodged against the board include the rejection of REA proposals for staff involvement in curriculum planning, and protection for probationary teachers.

Ferdon also claims the board has refused to accept improved fringe benefit proposals from the REA, and to provide the same percentage of the budget for teacher salaries as was included in last year's budget.

In the meantime, the board is proceeding with plans to "open school on Sept. 5."

Candidate for mayor says he runs campaign on 'facts'

In response to an attack on his campaign tactics, Romulus mayoral candidate Terry L. Troutt countered by today declaring that he is running a campaign based on "facts, research and truth."

The attack on "campaign tactics" erupted last week when Mayor Hyle Carmichael claimed "that certain opponents" are running on platforms of character assassination and misleading statements.

Troutt's response to the Carmichael attack in last Wednesday's Roman, also was filled with a warning: "The best advice Carmichael can take is to resign from office. I am not going to let up until Carmichael is brought to justice for violating our city charter, and for ruining the city of Romulus during his time in office."

THE MAYORAL candidate "L. Troutt" is liable for a State Treasury Department audit report which indicates that the administration spent more than $800,000 without council's formal approval.

Though the report was presented to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office, a spokesman for Prosecutor William Cahalan said "we're not getting involved in Romulus' politics." No funds were reported missing.

Much of the audit report showed merely the improper handling of matters, and stressed "better bookkeeping procedures," he said.

But Troutt intends to pursue the matter.

"I intend to have Carmichael and his entire administration fully investigated on documented evidence that I am giving the state attorney general's office this week."

A REPORT on the treasury department's audit findings appeared in the Aug. 15 edition of The Romulus Roman.

In a prepared statement, Troutt says Carmichael has created "a situation in which he is continuing to lie to the people—and I won't stand still one minute for that."

Continuing, the former township supervisor repeated: "Everything we have told the people in this campaign is based on facts, researched, investigated and supported by sworn statements by persons who have first-hand knowledge of illegal dealings by the Carmichael administration."

Troutt refused to divulge the information he claims to "have on hand" and which he said he will forward to the attorney general's office.

TROUTT ALSO ripped Carmichael on the question of senior citizen property tax breaks and the airport expansion controversy.

"Carmichael has said that senior citizens can't get a property tax break and that the city is powerless in stopping the airport expansion—if so, how come Van Buren has been able to stop expansion of the Willow Run Airport. And if he was aware of the state scene, he would

Melnick will direct narcotic program

The Romulus Help and Job Replacement Center has retained a director to design and implement a crisis intervention and narcotic detoxification program.

He is Leonard Melnick. Melnick holds a master's degree in social work.

The program will be instituted with a $90,000 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health received by the Romulus Drug Use and Abuse Council, Inc.

Melnick was the drug program coordinator for Berkshire County, Mass. In that capacity, he developed a comprehensive drug education program for the Central Berkshire Regional School District.

IN HIS NEW capacity, Melnick will design a comprehensive crisis counseling and drug detoxification program with $90,000 received from the federal government and another $30,000 in services and goods to be contributed by the City of Romulus.

With the funds, the director will hire part-time professionals to handle the duties formerly assumed by volunteer workers.

Melnick has worked as a juvenile probation officer, a psychiatric social worker and is a commissioned officer in the United States Public Health Service at the Medical Center for Federal Prisoners in Missouri.

He is a graduate of Cornell University, and holds a master's degree from Case Western Reserve University.

HE IS A member of the Academy of Certified Social Workers.

Melnick's wife, Helen, also a social worker, and the couple's three-year-old daughter, Emily, will be joining him soon in Michigan.

Road resurfacing program underway without snag

Work on Romulus' 12-mile $647,000 road resurfacing program is underway and progressing without a snag according to city officials.

Workmen of the Thompson-McCully Company of Belleville, began paving roads in the city's southwestern section late last week. Paving will be completed on those roads, Wade, Superior, Cogswell, Wabash, before the workmen move to roads further north on the city's western border.

The program will then proceed in a clockwise direction around Romulus' Metropolitan Airport, with work expected to be completed by late October.

"WE EXPECT it to move right along," said Charles Hellman, the city's engineering consultant from Wade, Trim and Associates of Taylor. "We don't anticipate anything holding up the program now, except possibly weather."

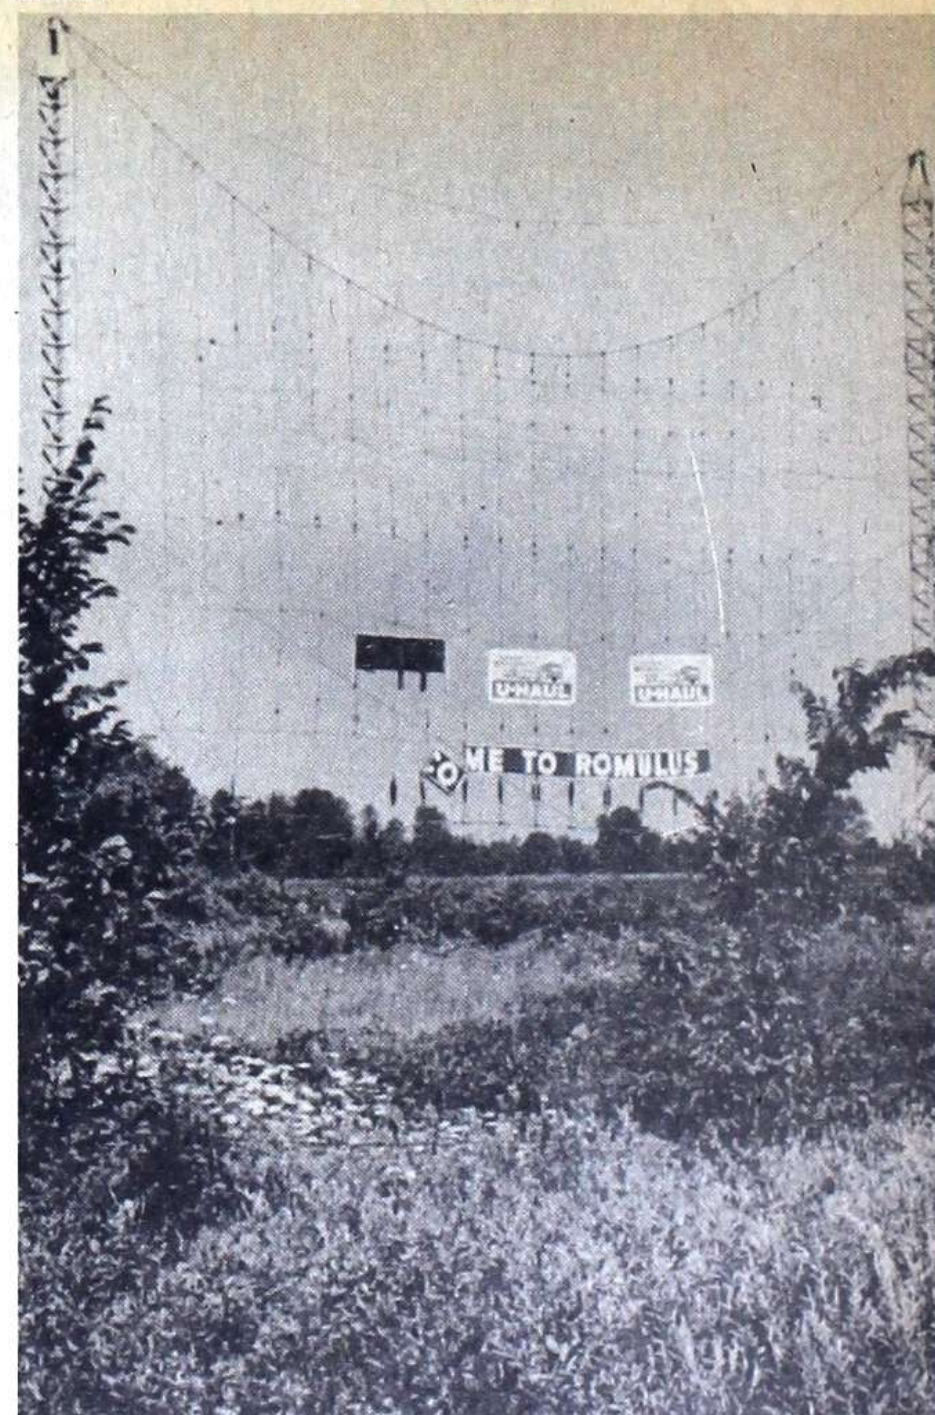

Hellman said a heavy rain could halt work, but emphasized that the paving firm has more than enough time to complete the program before winter weather will halt work for good.

"For all practical purposes, paving can proceed until mid-November without any worry of the weather," Hellman explained. "Then we'll have to start worrying about frost."

Residents, even in the area of the paving, may never know it's underway, according to Hellman. The program has been designed to insure that all local traffic is served at all times, and to insure that detours for the sake of paving a roadway are kept at a minimum.

SOMETIMES motorists may have to be diverted from the major thoroughfares," explained the engineer, "but we don't anticipate that happening too often, and even then, we anticipate it lasting for two or three hours."

A BRIDGE SUSPENSION? — Nope. Just an old suspended sign along the roadside for westbound I-94 motorists to glance at...what's left of it, that is. The sign, on private property up for sale, once sported the message "Welcome to Romulus," but as the photographer's camera clearly illustrates, the welcome mat is slipping — with two moving van commercial signs still hanging on. — Romulus Roman photo by Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko.

Meldrum resigns after tiff

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer

Romulus' building department director Clayton W. Meldrum, has resigned — allegedly in a tiff between Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael and himself.

Meldrum told a Detroit newspaper that he was forced to resign by Carmichael because his wife, Margaret, worked for the Troutt team in the August primary.

However, the building department director was reluctant to discuss the issue yesterday when contacted by the Romulus Roman.

"I WOULD rather not go into this," Meldrum said. "My wife felt her rights had been severed, and talked to the newspapers, but I did give a resignation, with regrets."

"All I wanted to do was work for the people of the community and now I'll have that opportunity."

In a letter dated Aug. 16, Meldrum stated: "I have

Recount doesn't change election tally results

Last week's recount of the Romulus Aug. 7 primary election results by workers of the Wayne County Board of Canvassers resulted in no change in the final tally.

According to City Clerk Leonard Folmar, the board of canvassers changed vote tallies by one or two for a few candidates, but did not alter the sequence of finish for the 29 candidates who took part in the council primary.

"It's official now, though we have not received the signed statement from the county yet," Folmar said.

THE RECOUNT leaves incumbent Edmund Bizik Jr., no chance at taking a spot on the Nov. 6 general election ballot in Romulus. Bizik, the son of the former township supervisor, finished 15th in his quest for one of the 14 spots in the Nov. 6 general election.

He called for a recount two weeks ago, in an effort to gain the 58 votes he needed to take the 14th spot in the balloting and to gain a spot on the general election.

In requesting the recount, Bizik filed the $5 per precinct fee required for a retallying of the votes.

But Folmar doesn't anticipate his $85 covering the cost of the recount.

"THE CITY will be saddled with a bill for the cost of three teams of three people each sent by the county to do the recounting and for the three members of the Board of Canvassers," Folmar said. "I have no breakdown of cost, but I expect the cost to be something more than $85."

Folmar said that in addition, the city accrues the cost of the two custodian salaries paid for workers to stay on duty while the recount was progressing and for the cost of two city cars used by the recounting team.

Folmar said members of the Board of Canvassers were surprised because Bizik was not present at the recount.

"They considered it a 'first' that a recount progressed without the party who requested the recount present," Folmar said.

Parks to charge fee for parking

Visitors to the major parks of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA) will be charged $1 parking fee per vehicle effective Jan. 1.

The parking charge will affect visitors using Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens, Stony Creek Metropark near Utica, Kensington Metropark near Milford, Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville at the start of next year — and is expected to go into effect at Willow Metropark near New Boston when a large swimming pool-games area complex now under construction opens as a major attraction.

Present plans do not include charges for vehicles at Marshbank Metropark near Pontiac, or Hudson Mills, Dexter-Huron and Delhi Metroparks, each located northwest of Ann Arbor since these picnic-playground parks do not have the wide variety of facilities offered at the major HCMA Metroparks.

EUGENE J. Ellison, chairman of the authority, said the policy decision of the HCMA Board of Commissioners to adopt a parking charge as a major source of revenue has been made only after careful analysis of the authority's financial situation following the defeat of its proposed 1/4 mill increase in the primary election last year and of the continued need for additional funds to operate and maintain existing parks and improving and providing new regional parks to serve the citizens of Southeastern Michigan.

Ellison said of equal and perhaps greater importance is improving public safety in parks.

Collecting a parking fee will provide a control point for better security and visitor safety. He said the authority board and staff think a parking charge of $1 per vehicle would be the most fair and equitable way to raise additional revenue as the cost would be borne by the park user.

Public transportation, walk-in visitors, bicyclists and prescheduled busses would not be charged the parking fee and under study is a proposal to provide a book of parking charge coupons at a reduced rate.

MICHIGAN STATE parks and recreation areas have had an annual user permit or daily fee for several years, but this is the first general fee ever assessed Metropark users with the exception of Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens.

Metropolitan Beach, with a variety of recreational facilities and a special event program, has had a parking charge throughout its 22-year operation. The current 50-cent parking fee, now collected from May 5 through Sept. 30, is used to help defray the costs of operation and maintenance at Metropolitan Beach.

Library recruits area volunteers

The Harrison Elementary School in Romulus is seeking parents' assistance in volunteering their help for a library program.

School Principal Arthur McPharlin said that it is his desire to have the library open five days a week, beginning Oct. 1.

With the help of parents, students would check out library books, preview films and filmstrips and do simple research and study.

Mothers would be asked to supervise the library area for two hours a week to allow students to become familiar with general library procedures.

In previous years, because of lack of space and personnel, the library was not used as a study area nor was it an integral part of the school's curriculum, McPharlin said.

"With the help of the community, the library program will be expanded. No special talent or education is necessary for this position of library aide," McPharlin said.

The desire to work with and help children is the only requirement, he added.

Interested parents should call McPharlin at 941-0433.

"A parent who volunteers her time and talent to work in a school feels an unique level of accomplishment. Her children are proud of her work and each parent working in a school receives a special insight into education," McPharlin concluded.

Township board gets tap-in fee proposal

The Van Buren Township Water and Sewer Commission has recommended to the township board that assessments be made to people tapping into public truck line sewers paid for by developers and maintained by the township.

The commission's recommendation was in response to an inquiry on the sewer tap-in program of the township.

The commission also was of the opinion that property owners do not necessarily have to tap in both water and sewer if these facilities are available unless it was a health hazard. Formal recommendation was tabled.

On the question: Do all sewer assessments (front line footage) have to be paid when property changes hands and also if water and sewer lines are available must they be tapped before property is sold?

The commission recommended that the township board turn this inquiry over to the township attorney for a legal opinion. The township board agreed and requested such an opinion.

Township Engineer Morris Levine of Morris Levine & Associates of Detroit told the commission that he would have the township's drainage code written up for the commission's next scheduled meeting.

Hospital gains accreditation

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer
Annapolis Hospital in Wayne has passed its bi-yearly inspection for accreditation with "flying colors."

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) recently informed Dr. Karl S. Klicka, M.D., executive director of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) that the authority-operated facility has been given accreditation for the next two years. A two-member team, including a medical doctor and a registered nurse, gave the hospital "high grades" after a two-day inspection in June. THE APPROVAL means that private health insurances will honor patients bills. A loss of accreditation could result in insurance carriers refusing to cover medical costs.

"I can't really say we're surprised," Dr. Klicka said. "We expected it, because we always are attempting to serve the public efficiently, and we remain well-prepared for such inspections at all times."

The PCHA was thrown into a bit of a turmoil earlier this year when the accreditation team said Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park, another PCHA facility, had lost its accreditation following a similar inspection.

The inspection team cited many problems in the hospital recordkeeping area when they recommended the removal of accreditation.

THE PCHA Board of Directors appealed to the accreditation team for a new inspection, and the commission gave the hospital "passing grades," and accreditation for a year, instead of the regular two-year period.

Following the re-inspection, original members of the inspection team were relieved of their duties by the JCAH.

At no time were the health care services offered by Outer Drive Hospital criticized by the accreditation team representatives, Klicka said.

An inspection team is expected to visit Outer Drive Hospital later in the fall to determine if the hospital can receive accreditation for a two-year period.

Councilman says development 'at any cost' can damage city

Romulus Councilman William M. Oakley said proponents of development for Romulus "at any cost" can only damage the city.

"In many instances, Romulus and many other suburbs should back off on luring developers at any cost, because of the harm these developers inflict on the city and its citizens," said Oakley, who is seeking election to his second term on the Romulus City Council.

Oakley, a member of the IQ slate backed by Romulus Mayor Hyle Carmichael for election, became aroused when opponents in the city primary said Romulus should lower its zoning requirements to bring in development.

A developer himself, Oakley said unscrupulous developers often skim rich topsoil from subdivisions to sell at premium prices, leaving in some instances, luxurious new homes with no trees or shrubs on the lot.

"As if that were not enough, if the city is fortunate enough to have adequate zoning restrictions, these unscrupulous developers will jam houses close together, squeezing more homes to the acre than is normally acceptable."

"So before any blanket statements are made about letting all developers into Romulus, efforts should be made to investigate them and screen out the undesirable ones.

"The suburbs of Detroit have literally been ruined by greedy developers.

"We don't want that to happen in Romulus."

Oakley, with 1,242 votes in the council primary race, led the field of 14 primary winners.

Independent candidate to join IQ slate for general election

The IQ slate in Romulus' Nov. 6 general election moved to "beef up" its personnel by adding an independent city council candidate - Dolores Ristow - to the ticket.

"Any person who can show she has the kind of following Mrs. Ristow demonstrated in the August primary is definitely an asset to our efforts," Mayor Hyle Carmichael said.

"We are pleased with the addition, because Mrs. Ristow has shown the same type of community pride we feel our slate offers the voters of Romulus."

MRS. RISTOW, executive secretary of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce, finished 13th in the field of 14 candidates who will compete in the Nov. 6 election.

She garnered 862 votes, 380 votes behind the balloting leader, incumbent William M. Oakley.

Oakley, along with incumbent Fred Junior Block, who finished second in the primary balloting with 1,127, are both members of the city council slate along with newcomers, Donald J. Treder, Gilbert White Jr. and Perry C. Gray.

Treder, White and Gray finished fourth, 11th and 12th in Aug. 7 the balloting respectively.

THE COUNCIL slate is running as a team with incumbent city administrators Carmichael, Clerk Leonard Folmar and Treasurer Albert Glinski.

Mrs. Ristow said she was elated at the slate's invitation to run with them.

"I'm please they have asked me to join," she said. "Because, essentially we share the same views."

"I plan to maintain my independent voice, but I also plan to work with the team - making sure that the lines of communication open in the city government."

"From the beginning of the primaries, I have been in accordance with the expressed philosophy of the Carmichael team."

"I have accepted an invitation to enter the final campaign as a member of the team, but this in no way will alter my independent thinking, my unbiased judgment and my loyalty to my friends, my supporters and to all the citizens of Romulus."

Mrs. Ristow said another reason for joining the team was financial.

County extends services of township road patrol

BY HENRY CANTIN

An extension of road patrol services to out-county areas by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department until Nov. 30 was approved by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

The road patrol extension was recommended by the ways and means committee of the board of commissioners several weeks ago after concerned townships had submitted written agreement to seek voter approval of millage proposals to finance their own police force.

The extension is to Nov. 30, the end of the county's fiscal year. The road patrol services - a free 24-hour law enforcement service - as to end Friday. The extension was approved by a 14-4 vote of the commissioners.

COMMISSIONER Paul Silver, who voted for the road patrol service continuance, said:

"I voted yes only because I intend to propose along with a number of other commissioners that the allocations for the next budget year be conditional and subject to review every two or three months so that if any of the township officials decide to play hanky panky as they have for years in the past, the board of commissioners will be in a position to cut that community off immediately."

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has been pressing the townships to assume part of all of the cost of road patrol services or provide their own police services.

The concerned communities affected by the commissioners' latest action are Canton, Sumpter, Van Buren, Northville and Huron townships.

Meldrum said he has a position with the Romulus School District as a foreman in maintenance and operations.

But back into surgery

'Your operation is a success'

'We're going to take you back. There's some internal bleeding we want to check.'

By DON HOENSHELL
Lansing Bureau Chief

(Part four of five-part series)

CLEVELAND — "Your operation is over, Sir. Your operation is over and it's a success..."

I made a quick mental check around to feel what hurt after four hours of surgery and slightly more than that of anesthetic blank. Nothing did.

Then another face came up, leaning over.

"We're going to take you back," it said. "There's some internal bleeding we want to check."

I CHOOSE not to debate. The anesthetic still was working and it was easier to close the eyes and trust. Next came the news that the operation was over and was, indeed, a success.

"Now, can you wiggle your toes, blink your eyes? Try to grasp my hand and squeeze." So there was the hilarious sensation of a man who has fended with politicians and coped with murders in his work-a-day world trying to wiggle his toes — and failing.

The tension of the weeks and years was ended, the toes worked and grasping the nurse's hand was like Hank Aaron hitting No. 715. What looked like a 12-inch zipper borrowed from a pup tent (23 stitches) had been installed in my chest. Was I now in the Zipper-Up Generation?

NOW THERE was the fight against lassitude. There was a clock at the end of the intensive care unit, but time was unimportant. There were windows but what day it was meant nothing. Even Watergate lost its charm.

There were nurses, highly trained beyond their education for this service to check the tubes and monitors and tubes, to keep the patient alive and comfortable.

In a life-death tossup, Cleveland Clinic assigns one nurse to one patient, two at the maximum, around the clock.

"We almost always know what's bugging you when you first wake up," said Nurse Jill Geitz at the pre-op briefing. "If we don't you can write out the letters on our palm."

THERE WERE tubes in every handy orifice. Others were constructed where needed, like the drain under the left ribs and in the arms. One measured the intravenous levels and a yard stick-like measure on the head of the bed was laid along side me at intervals for a reading.

One patient, unable to talk because a tube blocked off the gag reflex in the throat said later he thought the nurse was measuring him for a coffin. Now this is all explained beforehand, very carefully.

Somehow I missed what must have been a highly dramatic passage from a 50 per cent to a 100 per cent life. There had been no feeling, a total blank from the time the anesthesiologist said: "Now you'll be going to sleep."

But here's what happened, reconstructed from medical literature and interviews:

DR. CHALIT Cheanvechai's surgical team made a vertical incision from the collarbone to the bottom of the breast bone (12 inches), sawed through it and spread the rib cage to get at the heart sac.

At this point, Cheanvechai opened the pericardium (the sac) and examined the heart, the final diagnosis: Other surgeons were taking a length (4 to 5 inches) of saphenous vein from the inside of the left thigh.

The heart was stopped with an electrical charge and the functions of the heart and lungs, now collapsed, were turned over to a heart-lung machine. Then Cheanvechai bypassed two of the blocked arteries by slicing around the affected areas. Here is the rundown:

—The saphenous vein (from the thigh) was reversed to take advantage of the interior valves and make it into an artery pushing blood the other way, attached to the aorta, run down past the obstruction in the left anterior descending artery (90 per cent blocked) and reattached.

—The Left Internal Mammary Artery (LIMA) in the chest was rerouted as a bypass in the circumflex artery (80 per cent blocked) on the back surface of the heart.

—The third heart artery was "totally occluded" (or 100 per cent blocked) and was not operable. "That's where you had your heart attack," was the explanation.

IT HAD BEEN two days from the ceremony of the identification bracelet in admitting to the intensive care unit, down the hall and around the corner from the operating room on the sixth floor.

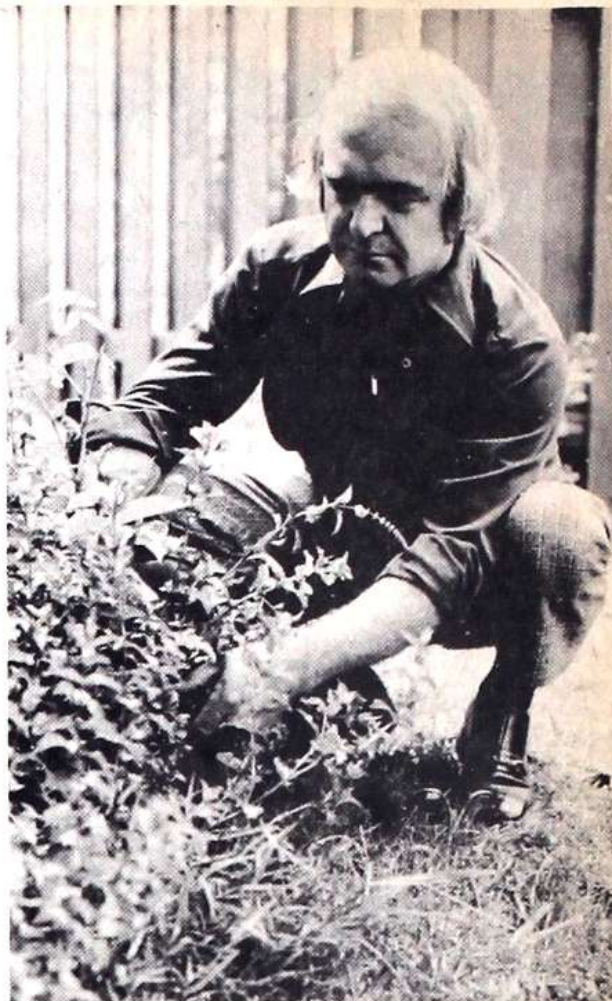

At 2:30 p.m. on admitting day, a doctor from the medical service made a quick check — heartbeat, lungs, blood pressure, and said everything was OK and counting.

"We don't see many patients like you," he said. "They (the surgeons) will do a very good job for you. You are in very fine shape for them."

THEN CAME the briefing for patients and their relatives in the eighth-floor conference room, the schedule for Operation Day (OD), a rundown on the tubes and techniques and the instructions: Nothing to eat or drink after midnight. You can have two sleeping pills tonight.

Across the corridor in a white room, people start working on the arms for some of the tubes. It was my last chance to ask a question but everything seems clear enough.

"Now you're going to sleep..."

GARDENING TO RESCUPERATE — Daily Eagle Lansing Bureau Chief Don Hoenshell found a bit of gardening relaxing as he was recuperating from open heart surgery. After the operation, Don looked at the 23 stitches installed in his chest and said: "Am I now in the Zipper-Up Generation?"

Nobody wins

Auto strike threat must not develop

It seems as though it was only yesterday when schools throughout Western Wayne County and across the nation let out for the summer recess — and area families began summertime vacations.

But now the season's last three-day holiday — Labor Day weekend — is almost upon us, and youngsters will soon be returning to their classrooms in Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Inkster and Canton Township.

The good times of the Labor Day weekend for all America mark a time of change. Suddenly the fall season is upon us and the pace quickens. Family attention shifts from plans for play to preparation to work.

At the same time, this Labor Day weekend, we should rededicate ourselves to earning the fruits of labor and contributing to our country's well-being. And we hope the auto talks negotiators will avert the threat of a costly strike.

We well remember the consequences paid from the economy-crippling strike at General Motors several years ago. A repeat of that long strike — at Chrysler, the UAW's strike target, would severely damage the No. 3 automaker and the nation's economy in general.

A rededication to the fruits of labor and our country should be the real significance of Labor Day. It should lend greater enjoyment as well as meaning to this season's last chance for a summer family outing.

Nobody wins in a strike.

Write to your congressman

Small price to pay

Nothing can refresh the soul like a hot, spicy debate with associates over a political issue. But how often do we go beyond that and write our opinion to our Congressmen?

Unfortunately, the answer is, "seldom or never." Too many of us fear that one opinion is barely audible in the hubbub of current events.

Yet, as one legislator has said, "The mail box is nearly as important as the ballot box to a member of Congress."

A short, factual letter limited to one topic could be just what a Congressman needs to chart his course in the right direction, and you will never know unless you write.

A major industry association gives some suggestions: "If you are writing about legislative proposals, explain how it affects you... Try to refer to a bill by number and subject... Make sure your views get to your Congressman early in delivery of the bill."

Good old days

When 'hair styles' tipped your politics

By TOM OCHILTREE
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — In the good old days (around 1970 that is) observers used to be able to tell the political orientation of the young by noting differences in hair style.

Medium length hair meant the kid was playing ball with the establishment at his college and saw himself ultimately as a future organization man.

Long hair marked the questioning liberal who didn't cotton much to the military.

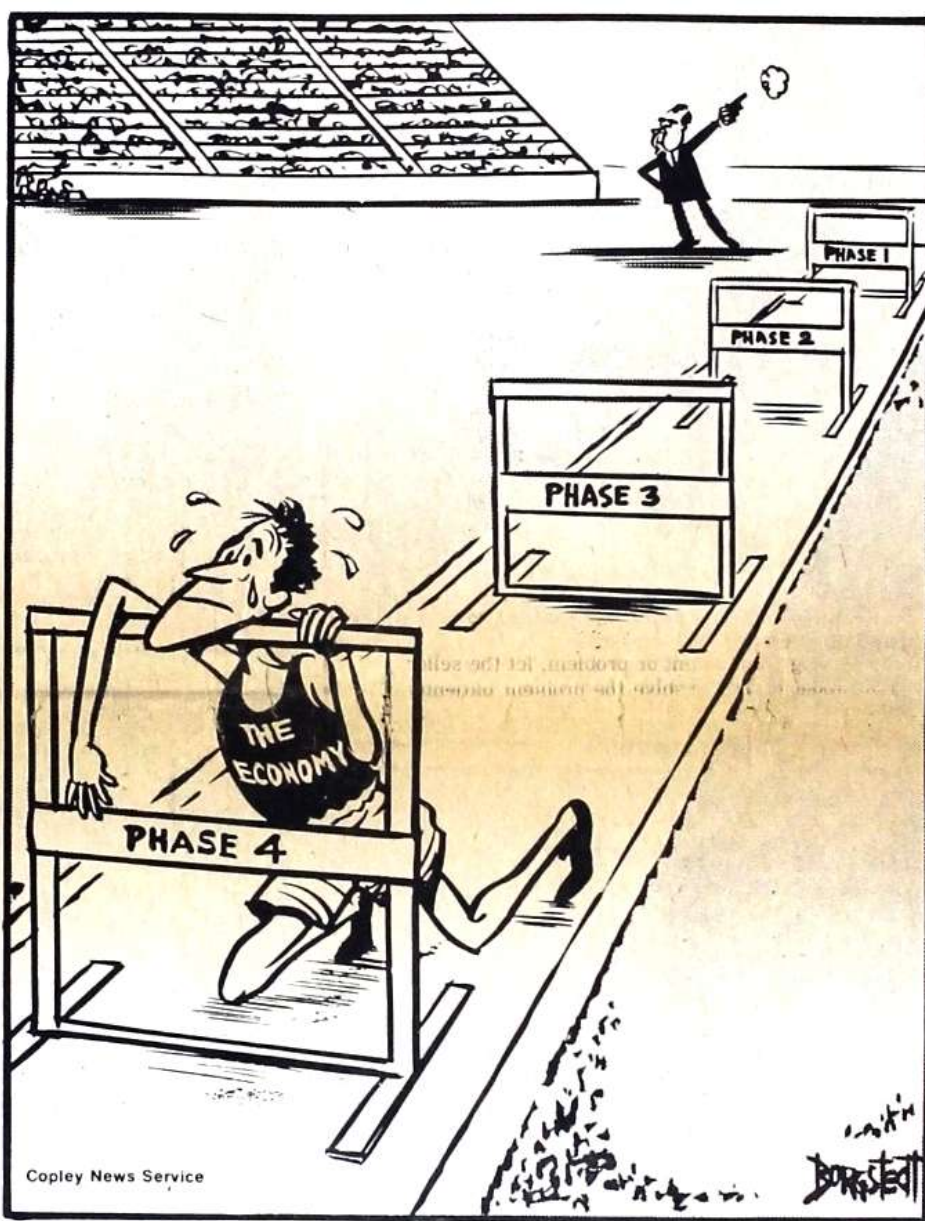

Extremely long hair (shoulder length or longer) was the badge of the radical especially when the hair was tied around the temples with a red cloth. You could almost bet a kid going around like that was capable of tearing up some of the property of his alma mater or fighting with the police.

But those distinctions have all become blurred now. Long hair is becoming associated with the unisex movement where the boys and girls all try to look alike. It also remains the style of the anti-jocks-the young of either sex who dislike sports, particularly football.

People who have long hair still may harbor extreme political views but these can be just as easily be of the right as of the left.

Nowhere was the confusion about hair more evident than at the recent Washington convention of the resolutely conservative Young Americans for Freedom (YAG).

Everyone in this outfit — which tends to regard President Nixon as too liberal — used to dress pretty much alike — short hair, button down shirts, sincere ties and neat suits.

The runaway dilemma

Ford urges adoption of anti-runaway plan

In a strange way the profound public honor triggered by news accounts of the sex murder of 27 young boys in Houston could procure an important social benefit, congressional sources believe.

The grisley Houston case, these sources said, had sparked new interest in a bill dealing with runaway youths authored by Rep. William D. Ford, 15th District Democrat.

Ford and Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., have been urging their colleagues for some time to do something about the growing problem of missing young people.

Up to now, though, their warnings have failed to have much impact. Ford first introduced legislation on the subject last year but his bill failed to get out on the floor. He reviewed the measure last March. Bayh has companion legislation in the works on the senate side.

With a new climate of urgency developing on the subject, Ford plans to argue on behalf of his bill when hearings are held next month by a House Education Subcommittee. There are strong expectations that this time the bill will get to the floor for a vote in both the House and Senate.

It turns out that most of the young boys in the Houston case had been reported as missing by their parents or were presumed by police to have been on the run when they met their grim fate.

Juvenile authorities estimate there are nearly a million runaway teenage boys and girls each year throughout the nation. The problem has become so large that local police departments have a difficult time coping with the case load.

To correct this situation Ford's bill would provide federal aid for the establishment of temporary housing and counseling services for runaway youths. The emphasis would be to facilitate a reconciliation of these young people with their families where possible and to get them off the streets before they find themselves in deep trouble.

The legislation also would strengthen, on an interstate basis, the reporting of missing youths and develop more cooperation between police departments and juvenile authorities everywhere. A detailed study of the whole runaway problem also would be undertaken.

Ford pointed out that without a system of temporary shelters police departments now can do little but arrest any runaway they find. The runaway then can either be returned at once to his parents, which in some cases may compound rather than solve the problem, or placed in a juvenile institution or jail.

At the same time, another Western Wayne County representative, State Rep. Thomas H. Brown of Westland, has introduced a bill in the State House to protect runaway juveniles in Michigan.

Brown's bill, if enacted, would direct the Department of Social Services to develop a plan to establish housing and counseling facilities across the state for runaway children.

Congressman Ford and State Rep. Brown are on the right track. Adoption of their proposals in Washington and Lansing deserve priority consideration before the Houston crime repeats itself in some other locale.

It could happen here...

Voice of the people

Ethnic pride

To the Editor: I would like to express my personal appreciation for your excellent articles relating to Poland, Polish-Americans and Polish "jokes."

Your understanding of our contributions to American society will help those who, out of ignorance or malice, have tended to disregard the feelings of the Polish-American community.

I wish you a very hearty "dziękuję" (thank you) on behalf of all Poles in the Belleville and Romulus area.

Adam Janowski

Brings warmth

To the Editor: This letter is being written to especially thank you and Jim Carravall for the two outstanding articles covering my 20th year of service with the Romulus Water Department. This special recognition is deeply appreciated and will always be cherished. Bringing this type of news to the community's attention is an honor in itself.

I want to compliment Reporter Jim Carravall for his time and efforts in producing such fine articles and most of all for writing articles which were truly unexpected. People like this unquestionably bring warmth into one's heart.

I deeply respect his excellent coverage and I in turn wish him continued success.

Elvera A. Fischer
Romulus

More recreation

To the Editor: Doesn't Mayor Carmichael know that when he raps Terry Troutt it's like rapping Ralph Nader?

Mr. Troutt has stood for everything that has been good for the people. I remember when he was supervisor of Romulus, he got more things done for this town than any 20 mayors combined. He had the same good record when he was state senator.

Mayor Carmichael's statements about Mr. Troutt's recreation program just doesn't convince me at all.

Mr. Troutt was the one who got recreation programs started in Romulus when he was supervisor, and Mr. Carmichael has not done one thing for the youth of Romulus.

If Mr. Troutt had been mayor of Romulus for the last few years our city would be further ahead.

Mrs. Angeline Prentiss
Romulus

'No more promises'

To the Editor: Now that the election (primary) is history in Romulus, and the slates are getting ready for the big show in November; I'd hope the two slates would stop exchanging political words (for the newspapers) and get down to positive campaigning.

And I am getting sick of a few candidates who claim "the people want me and are supporting my candidacy with manpower and finances." If they ever asked me for a donation I'd tell them a thing or two.

Is there any chance some local organization in Romulus will sponsor a candidates night for the citizens. One night should be for the administrative candidates, and one for the council candidates. This way we can get a good look at all of them hopefully select the best to run our city for the next two years.

Thanks for letting me write this letter (if you publish it) to let some of the candidates know we citizens of Romulus aren't falling for their fancy promises, etc.

Old Mexico sets the mood

A SOUTH OF the border flavor set the mood for the recent party honoring Kathy Bleeker and her fiancé, David Baldwin, both of Belleville. Hosted by the bride-elect's great-uncle and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Koester and Mrs. Ruth Miank, the gala was held at the Koester's home on Meredith Road, Romulus.

Invitations specified 'Mexican dress' and guests turned out as gayly-garbed señors, señoras and señoritas, as well as magnificent toreadors and gauchos. Many hours, we understand, were used to sew intricate embroidery and semi-precious jewels on the costumes.

Held outdoors, the aura of a Mexican hacienda came about with the use of gigantic sombreros (also beautifully decorated with straw flowers and figures), a pinata, bull's head and many colorful twinkling lights.

Music for the party, both recorded and live, was highlighted by Earl Scott of Grosse Pointe, an uncle of the bride, on the 'trompeta.' Mr. Scott is a featured trumpet artist of WJR Radio's 'Open House' program.

We hear, too, that hostess Ellen Koester, received a big hand when she performed a lively 'flamenco' (a cross between a polka and Mexican hat dance.) The reason for the accolade being that less than six months ago, Ellen had her hip completely re-built and replaced with stainless steel a wonder that she was able to even walk, let alone dance!

Then there was the food - and, ah, such 'vitallas' - which was served in the 'cantina' set up in the middle of the 'yarda' with the menu displayed for all to see. Hot tamales, made by another of the bride-elect's aunts, Mrs. Betty Levich of Rochester, had been tried and tested on her own family prior to their appearance at the buffet table.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM D. GROVES

Groves-Coblentz vows exchanged in Wayne church

Sandra Lee Coblentz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore G. Coblentz of Hayes Street, Wayne, chose Calvary Baptist Church in Wayne as the site for her wedding. She exchanged nuptial vows and rings with William David Groves, son of Mrs. Genevieve Groves of Martinsville Road, Belleville, before some 200 assembled guests.

The Rev. Weldon Spracklen read the recent summer rite after which a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wayne.

Entering the church with her father, the bride was gown in lace over taffeta designed in the princess mode with long sleeves, a high collar, fitted bodice and chapel train.

A PROFILE headdress of lace and pearls secured her elbow-length illusion veil and cascading white carnations and pink roses completed her bridal finery.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Jenny Szabo of Belleville donned a gown of orchid chiffon over taffeta accented with daisy appliques. Her picture hat was in matching orchid and her nosegay was comprised of orchid carnations and daisies.

Bridesmaids in similar frocks of varying pastel shades were Mrs. Ray Vollmar of Lansing, the bridegroom's cousin; Linda Coblentz of Wayne, the bride's sister; Debbie Szabo of Belleville; and Carol Croft of Madison Heights.

Sheri Szabo donned a floral print dress for her role as flowergirl. The bridegroom's cousin, Mike Vollmar of Riverview, served as ringbearer.

BEST MAN was Ray Szabo of Belleville. Ushers were Ray Vollmar of Lansing, cousin of the bridegroom; Tom Gosgro of Madison Heights, another cousin; Donald Hubert of Westland, uncle of the bride; and Robert Coblentz of Wayne, her brother.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Coblentz selected a gown styled with a white lace bodice and skirt of orchid chiffon over taffeta. Mrs. Groves, the bridegroom's mother, chose to wear blue chiffon and taffeta for the happy occasion.

Before making their home in Belleville, the newly weds traveled to Upper Michigan and Canada on their honeymoon.

The rehearsal dinner, held at Seitz's Restaurant in Westland, was hosted by the bridegroom's mother.

Re-fried beans, quacamole dip, Mexican bean casserole, ribs and chicken, and corn bread were but a few of the many dishes which awaited the guests' selections.

Kathy and David, who have reserved the First United Methodist Church of Belleville for their October 12 wedding, received seeds of lovely gifts for their future home.

Among those enjoying the 'fiesta' and honoring the young couple were their parents, Manley and Gladys Baldwin and Ruth Bleeker, all of Belleville; Kathy's abuelo and Abuela, the Ben Scotts of Romulus; and her brother, Ken Bleeker. Other guests, all relatives of the Bleekers, came in from Farmington, Rochester, Grosse Pointe, Monroe, and Wayne.

Kiwanians meet for corn roast

FOX WOODS area of Lower Huron Metro Park was the gathering spot last Tuesday evening for members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club. Along with wives, children and guests, the group numbered close to 100 as it held its annual August corn roast.

Among those attending was former Kiwanian Tom Hopka and his wife, Betty, who were here from Knoxville, Tennessee, and Jae Soon Song, who is visiting in this country from Korea and who is the houseguest of Mrs. Ada Sager and her brother, Marvin Meerse.

Setting up the yearly get-together, President Don Meyers was assisted by co-chairman Bud Stapleton and also Dick Wood, John Touse, Olin Wyman (the faithful keeper of the cauldron) and their respective wives, Jean, Frances, Vivian, Pat and Elsie.

The distaff side of the club provided special dishes and desserts which made up a beautiful buffet table. And Tom Scotchorn brought along his portable piano to lend a musical touch to the proceedings.

Bridal shower honors Cathy

CATHY FERRETT, who became Mrs. Michael Muha last Saturday, was guest of honor a week earlier at a bridal shower given by two of her attendants, Pam Miller and Barb Babut.

Held at the Miller home on Stanley Drive, the party was tagged 'miscellaneous'. The 14 guests included the honoree's sister-in-law from Charlotte, South Carolina, Lisa Ferrett, as well as friends and relatives from South Lyon, Farmington, Allen Park and Belleville.

Hors d'oeuvres were served out of doors where several wedding theme games were conducted. The group later moved indoors to watch the bride-to-be open her gifts and to enjoy a buffet lunch.

Two watermelon 'baskets' filled with fresh fruit served as focal point at the buffet table.

Another unusual touch was the three-tiered 'wedding cake' which Mrs. Stella Babut had created from white hand towels, narrow pink ribbon and a miniature bride and groom. Used as door prize for the party, the 'cake' was won by the mother of the prospective bridegroom, Mrs. Michael Muha of Allen Park.

Houseguests return to Florida home

RECENT HOUSEGUESTS of Mrs. Frances Korgal of Spencer Street were her brother and sister-in-law, John and Ginny Dunayczan from Vero Beach, Florida. Their son, Dale, joined them at the Korgal home during their stay while their three daughters, Linda, Vickie and Karen, stayed with their cousins, Jim and Genevieve Schultz of Hoelt Road.

Taking a month away from their motel, 'The Dolphin', on the Florida's East Coast, the group enjoyed a lazy week with their hosts at a cottage on Long Lake near Alpena before motoring homeward last week.

Classmates share Dale's birthday

DALE SPRINGER blew out six candles on his cowboys and Indians birthday cake Saturday, August 18. The one o'clock party, given by his parents, the Floyd Springers of Marlowe Road, included his entire kindergarten class from Mrs. Payne's room at Quirk school.

The 'reunion', centered around a Yogi Bear theme, was a fun afternoon with games and prizes for the 25 youngsters. Getting to dive into a pile of straw for hidden candies was about the most 'exciting' part of the day with just a few bumped heads as a result.

Giving Dale's mom a hand with the party fixin's were his grandmothers, Mrs. Betty Beavers of Belleville and Mrs. Marie Springer of Dexter as well as his aunt, Mary Van Valkenburg, and a friend, Mrs. Jean Burgett, both of Ypsilanti.

Golfers, wives guests of Atchinsons

A DOZEN LOCAL golfers were at Bay Point Country Club on the 17th to take part in the SME (Society of Manufacturing Engineers) annual outing. Manley Baldwin, a member of the club, arranged the tee-off times for the group but he, himself, had to bow out in favor of a family wedding in Grand Rapids.

The day-long event resulted in another invitation from Floyd Griffith to do a 'repeat' of the day the following Thursday at Washtenaw Country Club. Then Dutch Atchinson chimed in with an additional 'invite' to come to his and Merle's home for a cook-out after-wives included.

It wasn't 'til mid-way in the proceedings (somewhere between cocktails and dinner) that the group discovered a 'little secret' the Atchinsons had managed to keep - the fact that the day was their wedding anniversary.

So toasts to 35 years of togetherness were in order and were extended by Tom and Betty Hopka who are here from Knoxville, Tennessee; Ed and Mary Anne Hudge of Ann Arbor; Bud and Fran Stapleton, Manley and Gladys Baldwin, the Bill Hedges, the Art Hills, the Floyd Griffiths, the Harry Hidenfelters, the Bert Smiths, the Ron Sierotas, Clyde Batzer and Bill Hidenfelter.

WILDLIFE PROTECTION — These young boys are discussing rules of the Nature Study Area of Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville with park naturalist Bill Davenport. Signs like these are posted to remind visitors to protect and preserve wildlife growth in the park. The Nature Center remains open daily through Monday, Sept. 3, with weekend hours during September and October. The trails are open year-round for self-guided hikes.

A new adventure for the family

Metropark's nature trail is alive

William P. Davenport, seasonal naturalist at Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville, is the kind of fellow who likes to share his experiences about nature with the many visitors stopping at the nature study area.

"Visitors range from children who are just beginning to know more about natural science to various outdoor enthusiasts who know a great deal about birds, plant life and other features," said Davenport as he relaxed near the PawPaw nature trail sign.

Each trip along a nature trail — such as the PawPaw or Bob White — can be a new adventure since animals that inhabit the trail include skunks, raccoons, opossums, woodchucks, squirrels, foxes and chipmunks. One of the secrets of "trail watching" is walking quietly and listening to the sounds of nature.

MANY VISITORS are amazed at the variety of birdlife, which includes the redheaded woodpecker, flicker, black and white warbler, Blue Heron, the bob white, meadow lark — and sometimes a great American egret can be seen along the marshes of the Huron River.

Signs encourage persons to take self-guided hikes, where they can see a community of plant life, including beautiful trees and wildflowers. "One of the unique plants in the area is the Kentucky Coffee tree that is usually found only in southern states," said Davenport, who pointed out that wildflowers are usually attractive in the spring and fall.

Fall wildflowers along the trail include New England aster, goldenrod, wingstem, Joe-Pye weed and several others that most persons can recognize easily.

Either before or after nature hikes visitors stop in at the seasonal nature center building, a small geodesic dome-type structure that is home to a collection of interesting exhibits.

"TWO SPECIAL exhibits that attract most comment are the beehive with live bees swirling in and out and other live animals, used in personalized teaching with the natural curious children and sometimes curious adults," said Davenport. Other exhibits include matching games that light up when visitors choose correctly, a hornet's nest, aquarium that features live toads, frogs, turtles, insects, tadpoles, a collection of ferns that inhabit the park and a living study of the life cycle of the Monarch butterfly.

"Our job here is to make the study of natural science fun for all," said Davenport, who hopes that persons will become more aware of their environment and learn to take better care of their resources.

As a park naturalist, Davenport performs a number of duties, including explaining to visitors facts about the nature study area, providing lectures of guided nature hikes to school, civic and day camp groups, putting up trail signs, maintenance of the trails, cleaning the aquariums and feeding animals in the nature center.

Thomas H. Smith, chief naturalist, directs the nature study programs at the several HCMA Metroparks serving the citizens of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston, and Washtenaw counties. Mrs. Jocelyn Baker, supervising naturalist, and Davenport, park naturalist, are hired to serve the public during the peak summer months at Lower Huron Metropark. Daily operations conclude at the end of the day on Monday, September 3.

THE TRAILS REMAIN open for year-around self-guided hikes, while the Nature Center is open week-ends in the fall. Appointments for school group visits are available in September and October by contacting the Nature Program, Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 600 Woodward Ave., Detroit, 48226 or by calling 961-5865.

"While I have lived mainly in the City of Detroit, I've always been interested in the outdoors," said Davenport, who looks forward to his junior year at Wayne State University. He was graduated from Henry Ford High School in Detroit in 1970.

While attending college, he resides in north-west Detroit, but lives in Romulus during the summer.

Ethnic Festival goes international

An international Ethnic Festival will be held on downtown Detroit's riverfront behind Cobo Hall Aug. 31, Sept. 1, 2 and 3. There will be a variety of entertainment and activities consisting of elements of each of the Ethnic Festivals held this summer.

The International Festival, which has been organized by the Central Business District Association (CBDA), will begin 6 p.m., Friday when Mayor Roman S. Gribbs welcomes festival-goers at the opening ceremonies.

THAT EVENING'S entertainment will feature the current stage show from the Pier I restaurant.

Saturday's highlights will include the Village Dancers, performing folk dances from the Eastern Mediterranean region, Rick Fishman who will play international folk music on his guitar, 2 p.m. Beer Barrel Polka Contest for folks over 60, and the Pier I show. Sunday afternoon the riverfront site will be graced with international beauties. Women who have been crowned queens at previous summer Ethnic Festivals will compete for the top honor — Queen of the International Festival. The judging will take place at 2 p.m.

Sunday evening, following the 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Pier I show, songstress Maria Mariotto will sing modern and folk songs from Italy.

ON LABOR DAY, Monday, Sept. 3, the attractions include performances by three jazz bands: 2 p.m. the Austin-Moro Band; 3 p.m. the New McKinney's Cotton Pickers and 4 p.m. the Norris Patterson Band. Following the band's performances the Pier I show will be repeated.

Flea market vendors who have been selling their eccentric and antique items on lower Woodward Ave. every Sunday this summer will be at the riverfront site all four days of the International Festival. This will be the last weekend for the flea market until next June.

THE SHRINE OF THE SNOWSHOE PRIEST—Dedication of the Snowshoe Shrine near L'Anse is one of Michigan's newest religious-historical attractions—with large turnouts expected during the Labor Day weekend. Formal dedication of the shrine is scheduled for Sept. 16.

At the State Fair

Fun time and cheese

It's been 23 years since you were able to aim a good pitch and dunk a clown in the water at the Michigan State Fair.

But get out the elbow grease — and practice your windup — the games of skill are back, and so is bingo.

More than 100,000 prizes including kewpie dolls and panda bears, all wearing a sign "I was won at the 1973 Michigan State Fair" are lined up and waiting at more than 80 booths, including those in which you throw darts at a balloon, basketballs through a hoop, and baseballs at bottles. Games start at a nicker, and carry a top price of 50 cents.

Two non-profit organizations will be running the Bingo concessions.

THE CITY OF HOPE and the Metropolitan Art Complex will call the magic numbers from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. daily, with a maximum of $2000 in cash prizes each day. Bingo players must be 18 or older.

THIS MAJOR NEW exhibit, filling the first half of the fair's Agriculture Building, brings together free samples to nibble as well as consumer tips and cooking demonstrations.

More than two dozen individual displays and programs will offer fair goers continual entertainment and edification.

Some of the featured exhibitors include the J.L. Hudson gourmet and bakery division; the Michigan Potato Industry Commission, which is sponsoring an educational display explaining how potatoes are processed and how they can be best used at meal time; and the Greek-American Progressive Association, exhibiting Greek pastries and ceramics.

THE AMERICAN Dairy Association is sponsoring a large display, including a cow sculpted of 320 pounds of butter, standing about five feet at the head

Develop family program

Determine home security

Improve your

just moved into a home or apartment. Keep lower windows covered so outsiders cannot see it.

THE THIRD STEP is begin to protect the vulnerable areas. Install locks so they cannot be forcibly opened.

Decide on whether locks alone will do it. You may want to purchase a home alarm system.

"One company has had great success in a Chicago area operation, tying home burglary, fire and panic alarms into the local cable television system," Post said. "Using the same cable that brings television in to subscribers, it is able to install alarm devices and send alarms back down the cable to a central station where personnel are monitoring the alarm and calling the proper response team — fire or police."

"WE BELIEVE that in a number of years most homes will be protected by some kind of home alarm system."

ANOTHER COMPANY has installed computer systems at its central office. A subscriber's home is programmed into the system, and this programming includes safes and vaults, as well as doors and windows. If a burglar effects entry, a signal is flashed back to a computer. Instantaneously, the computer transmits its information to a monitor.

An attendant viewing the screen digests the information and alerts patrols and the police.

Robert McDermott, a former New York City detective and now head of a security corporation (Holmes), gives this advice:

"Do nothing if you are awakened from sleep and sense a burglar is in your bedroom. Play dead, and don't move a muscle. And above all, do not scream. A felon will resort to physical violence and even a deadly weapon to silence his victim."

WHY PAY RENT ?

THE LANDLORD GETS ALL THAT MONEY, AND WHAT DO YOU GET TO KEEP IN RETURN? NOTHING! WHY NOT BUILD EQUITY INTO SOMETHING YOU'LL OWN—THE COST IS ABOUT THE SAME AS A COMPARABLE APARTMENT.

The threat of property loss and personal harm to the family has reached significant enough proportions that every prudent head of the family should begin immediately to develop a home security program.

At the start, rather than racing off to the nearest hardware store to purchase the locks and chains, the home owner should first think about his over-all program of security, decide the areas and degree of protection required and then begin immediately to protect the critical areas.

Total protection is in reality impossible but a good program will protect the majority of assets.

"THROUGHOUT history, the home has required the greatest amount of protection," says Richard Post whose recent book "Determining Security Needs" (Oak Publications Inc.) teaches business and industry how to audit security and develop plans for it.

"The cave was a form of home defense which the instinct of primitive man told him was necessary," Post said.

"We evolved to the fortress walls, the moat around the castle and the legions of warriors ready to defend the landowners' distress and subsequently the legal process incarcerated the criminal," he added.

Today, however, the role of the police has been seriously challenged first by the number of other-than-crime-fighting duties the policeman must perform and second by the amount of people now involved in crime.

"REGARDLESS of the root causes and the social and governmental response for dealing with them, the problem of providing protection for crimes against the home is a serious one to be faced by every home owner," he said.

The first step toward adequate home security is to develop an over-all attitude about security.

As part of this first step, you should investigate criminal statistics in your area. Talk with officers and find out what level of crime exists in your area based on police reports. You as a citizen have the right to be informed of the information.

You also will be able to find out through conversations at the police precinct how they operate and generally what their response time to crime reports is.

At this time, you are sure to learn why it is important for you to give accurate, immediate reports to the police is any time a crime is committed.

Cooperation with the police is essential to controlling crime. Without reports, the police are unable to direct crime-fighting activities toward reducing the crime in that area.

"The second major step is deciding your vulnerability," Post said. "These are, for the most part, when you are not home, when members of your family are and you are not, and the proper storage of valuables."

As part of this over-all attitude about crime, you need to develop an awareness on the part of your family about crime and methods of controlling.

YOU MAY NEED to teach your family how to keep strangers out of your home when you are not present. You may have to teach younger children not to open the door to strangers if you are not present.

But what happens when you are away? The basic step and one many homeowners forget is: lock the house up, secure the window latches, tell your neighbors you are away, make it look like you're still home and notify the police when you go on vacation.

Your vulnerability here is critical. You should do a survey of your house before you go on vacation. Make doors and windows burglar proof.

Change your locks if you've

Now is best time to seed new lawn

The best time to seed a new lawn in Michigan is between Aug. 15 and Sept. 1. Michigan State University soil scientists list the following steps for establishing a new lawn.

Proper fertilizing enhances lawn

Fertilizing in early September will enhance the growth of your lawn during cooler fall temperatures and insure maximum recovery from thinning caused by heat, drought and diseases, say Michigan State University horticulturists. Avoid late fall fertilization because it stimulates the growth of leaf tissues and increases the chances for winter injury. Fertilizing after growth has ceased stimulates growth in the spring.

Removing thatch will help prevent disease and aid in water and nutrient penetration. Late August or early September is the best time during fall.

During late fall it is important to remove all leaves from the lawn. It is particularly important for lawns that are heavily shaded because the leaves can screen out available light and cause thinning of the turf.

Roof color rates tops in versatility

The most versatile element you can add to a home is color.

Depending on the choice of color and the way and place in which it is used, color can have various effects: visual, psychological, even physical. For instance: bright colors are attention-getters, somber colors tone things down; reds "create" warmth, blues are cool; whites and light colors actually reflect heat, black and dark colors absorb it.

TO GET AN IDEA of the diverse roles color plays in the home, consider its use in just one area — the roof.

During the past few years, roof color has become an increasingly popular method of "exterior decoration." One reason is the availability of quality roofing materials such as heavyweight asphalt shingles SR&A, Box 3202, Grand Central Station, New York, including white, black, pastels, N.Y. 10017.

blends, and the increasingly popular "earth" and "forest" shades.

One purpose of roof color is to individualize a home — achieved simply and effectively by using a color that contrasts with neighboring roofs.

WHERE COMMUNITY coordination is sought, the various asphalt shingle blends allow roofs that match without monotonous duplication.

Earth and forest shades — a range of browns and greens — permit coordination of the house and its particular geographic surroundings.

More information on roof color — and a color chart — are contained in a booklet, "A Homeowner's Guide to the Selection of Quality Roofing."

It's available for 25 cents from heavyweight asphalt shingles SR&A, Box 3202, Grand Central Station, New York, including white, black, pastels, N.Y. 10017.

DOOR DECOR — For elegant door decor, let the front entrance set the style for interior doors. These ponderosa pine entry and closet doors afford decorative continuity. Matching wood panel doors are available at lumber dealers in stock sizes and many styles.

Doors should enhance the exterior and interior

A homeowner's interest in door styles often starts at the front steps. But, it shouldn't stop there.

Door experts point out that most homeowners consider the front entrance essential to the total look of the house exterior. But, some are not aware of the equally effective role doors can play in interior decor.

An association of woodwork manufacturers suggests that the best way to decorate with doors is to let the front entry "key" the door design for the rest of the house.

DESIGNERS call his "architectural continuity." It's feasible because there are a variety of wood panel interior doors especially designed to either duplicate or blend with the front door.

"Coordinated" exterior and interior styles are available in stock sizes at local lumber dealers and home centers.

These are among the most popular designs:

—Colonial six-panel Cross-and-Bible, in which four upper panels form a cross and two lower panels depict an open book.

—St. Andrew's Cross, with wood panels or glass panes set above an x-shaped cross. This design is often used for Dutch doors which, though rarely used inside a house, make a handsome back or side entrance. In Dutch doors, the top and bottom halves operate separately.

—Eight-panel Florentine doors.

—Fifteen-panel Tudor doors.

—Three-panel Contemporary. The panels are large squares, deeply grooved, and set vertically down the center of the door.

—Mediterranean — multi-paneled, often with elaborate carving, rich embossing and exotic-looking grillwork.

ALL OF THESE styles can be obtained as double-entries: duplicate doors set side by side in a wide opening. Wood doors can be painted, or stained to bring out the rich natural grain.

Entrance doors of ponderosa pine are available as complete "packages" with sidelights, columns, fanlights, pediments and other decorative accessories that suit the style.

In furnishings Designers 1976

A familiar phenomenon is the surge of patriotic enthusiasm that seems to accompany every presidential election, then quietly fade away after the votes are counted and the winners inaugurated.

"But don't look for such a fade-out in 1973!" advises an interior design consultant. She regards the fervor of the 1972 presidential election as a sort of prelude to the main event: Our nation's bicentennial celebration in 1976.

"Not since Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee has the English-speaking world anticipated such a happy milestone in history, and America appears ready to make the most of it," she said.

THERE'S EVIDENCE to support her opinion in almost any direction you care to look, but most especially in the area of home furnishings.

Whether you like red, white, and blue for patriotic reasons, or just because they happen to be bright, bold colors with wide appeal, you can use them anywhere from the carpet on the floor to the pictures on the walls without sacrificing good taste, according to the consultant.

In developing its "Spirit of '76" collection of wall accessories, one manufacturer managed to break the style barrier that once limited Americana to the quaint world of rag rugs and ruffled lampshades.

One of their most appealing red, white, and blue designs is a definitely contemporary battery wall clock called Sequence.

IT'S COMPOSED of jumbo block numerals - 3, 6, 9, and 12 - that enclose a modern square dial. The 12 stands boldly forth in red, outlined with white, while the other three numbers are in vivid blue. The face is in white, with hands and dial markers in red.

At the opposite end of the fashion scale is the American Flags battery clock, incorporating the American eagle along with the current 50-star flag and the 13-star banner of the original states.

In addition to clocks, the collection offers a pleasing variety of decorative wall plaques as well as framed mirrors and a wall console.

Beauty on the farm

Susan Rocjowski, 10, of 14620 Elwell Rd., Belleville, shown hugging one of the many "valued" lambs exhibited at the recent Wayne County 4-H Fair held near Belleville. The pair amply demonstrates the old expression of "Beauty Down on the Farm." We sorta of agree.

Riding time at the fair

The Annual Wayne County 4-H Fair, the showcase of 4-H arts and crafts, livestock projects and programs, recently ended its 27th presentation, but not before youthful members of various 4-H horse units show off their mounts during one of the fair's pre-judging periods.

Plans for next year in motion

County's 4-H Fair a success

Congratulations to the Wayne County 4-H Fair Association for another "bigger and better" fair this year. Area reports received from fair visitors, exhibitors or livestock events, arts and crafts and achievements in the art of farming by members of various 4-H Clubs; in addition to other varied 4-H programs, indicate without any doubt the association's 27th 4-H Fair presentation was a tremendous success.

The entertainment presented at the annual 4-H showcase attracted record crowds and the popular midway with its many rides and challenging games will remain in the minds of many area visitors for some time.

The annual 4-H Fair Parade, which was a preview of the fair, was a so a "great success" in terms of parade participation and viewing by spectators.

The evening presentations at the grandstand displayed not only the talented horsemanship of 4-Hers but other projects and programs created by both the youth and leaders of the well-rounded 4-H concept.

The officials of the Wayne County 4-H Fair Association, sponsors of the annual event, were equally elated over this year's fair and are already planning for their 28th presentation...next year.

Again, we say congratulations and we anxiously wait for next year's showcase of 4-H achievements.

The excited youngsters are cheering a demonstration at the 4-H Fair, --they'll be future 4-H Club members.

Shades of yesterday

This couple still can recall when they were young tots in their parents' arms, gazing at the many arts and crafts, animals, horsemen—and the fun of a Midway. And they did—at the recent 4-H Fair.

Enterprise Roman photos

Ready for the judging

Area 4-H Horse groups spend many hours preparing for the annual Wayne County 4-H Fair's ribbons and awards. The scene above was taken during the recent 4-H Fair. The 4-H horse are shown lining up for a pre-inspection prior to the judging contests.

A popular attraction

The Midway with its many rides and challenging games is one of the county fair's popular attractions. And the 27th annual Wayne County 4-H Fair which recently ended its six-day run—was no exception. Above is a scene of the Midway and a portion of the record crowds that visited the fair daily at the Wayne County 4-H Fairgrounds near Belleville. The 4-H Fair this year was a "great success" according to officials of the Wayne County 4-H Fair Association.

22 area scouts detail recent trip

Details of a recent two-week eastern United States trip taken by 22 Boy Scouts and six scout leaders from Boy Scout Troop 793, sponsored by St. Anthony Catholic Church in Belleville, were reported Monday by troop members.

The first stop for the troop was a visit to the National Scout Jamboree East at Butler, Pa. The scouts purchased patches and mementos of the Jamboree as well as traded patches with Boy Scouts from other states. They also visited with local scout leaders Cal Light and Anthony Talaga, also from the Belleville area, who were in attendance at the Jamboree.

The troop members then visited Gettysburg and received a guided tour of the Civil War battlefield, cemetery and other points of interest.

Washington, D.C., was the next stop, with visits to the top of the Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial, Capitol Building, FBI tour arranged before by Congressman William D. Ford and a tour of the Smithsonian Institute.

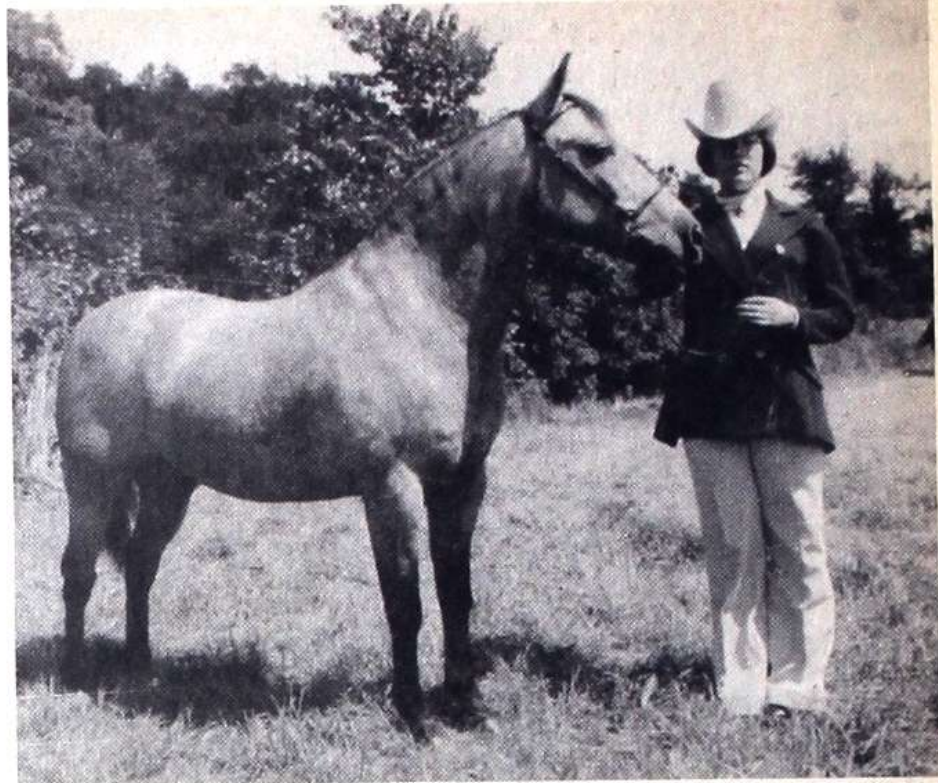

A visit was made to the Arlington National Cemetery where the troop saw the grave of President John F. Kennedy and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Mount Vernon, home of George Washington was toured, followed by a visit to the National Scouting Headquarters in New Brunswick, N.J., and Corning Glass Works in Corning, N.Y.

The final stop of the trip east was at Chippewa Creek Conservation Area near Welland Port, Ontario. The troop inspected the Welland Canal and Niagara Falls.

Bulletin is distributed

Van Buren revises trash pick-up schedule

A revised trash pick-up schedule detailed in a public service bulletin is being distributed this week to residents by the Van Buren Township administration.

The four-page cardboard bulletin, which can be hung in an appropriate place in the home, also contains a calendar showing times, days and areas of trash pickups.

Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer hopes the distribution of the information bulletin will avoid confusion on trash pickups that previously existed in some areas of the township. The distribution also is a township program to get the assistance of residents in keeping the township clean.

"THE CALENDAR printed in the bulletin is the only way we can indicate our pick-up schedule," Gollwitzer said. "Those weeks that are shaded in the calendar are the weeks we will pick up the east half of the township. The clear unshaded weeks will be the weeks for pick up in the west half of the township."

The dividing line for township trash pick-ups is still Belleville and Sumpter Road lines.

The township has listed streets under two days of the week. Residents are being requested that trash be put out before the first day, which will be picked up no later than the second day shown. There will be no trash pick-up on legal holidays.

"In general, our goal is a better appearing community," Gollwitzer said. "So please put your trash out the night before the first day shown for your street."

"This way it will be out the shortest time possible. This minimizes the possibility of it being stown about. We have been told that moth balls or crystal put in the plastic bags will discourage animals from tearing into them," he added.

THE SUPERVISOR also told the residents that "if the bottom of the plastic bag is lined with a heavy layer of newspaper, it can be handled with less chance of breakage."

Trash collection includes everything except wet garage, manure and oversized or overweight items. The weight limit is 50 pounds per lift and such items as appliances, which cannot be crushed in the compactor trucks, will not be picked up, the supervisor said.

The preferred type of trash is that tied up in trash bags. The township will empty trash cans as in the past. Material put out in other forms will be picked up if reasonable (can be handled).

However, Gollwitzer pointed out, trash left in a receptacle that dissolves in the rain or becomes strewn about by other means, will be left as unreasonable for efficient handling.

A call must be made to the township hall at 699-2001 for the special pickup.

Trial date is delayed

The pre-trial hearing of Dr. Elvis S. Alford, 64, of 20 Liberty St., Belleville, accused of allegedly dispensing narcotic prescriptions without proper examination has been postponed until Sept. 5.

The pre-trial hearing was scheduled to begin before 34th District Court Judge James B. Stone on Aug. 16. The postponement was due to the unavailability of witnesses for the Aug. 16 session of the court.

The complaint against Dr. Alford was made by the Michigan State Police after he gave an alleged drug prescription to a state police investigator without proper examination. Four narcotic prescriptions are involved in the complaint.

Dr. Alford is out on a $5,000 personal bond pending the court hearing.

Carmichael seeks campaign workers

A request for volunteer workers was issued recently by Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael when he opened permanent headquarters at the Old Township Hall for the Integrity And Quality (IQ) slate of eight candidates running for office in the Romulus city election in November.

The mayor explained, "We urgently need many volunteers to perform a variety of tasks necessary to waging a successful campaign. We ask that they report to our headquarters or call at their convenience. Any assistance will be welcomed and appreciated."

Located at Goddard and Sterling in the heart of downtown Romulus, the headquarters will serve as the focal point of campaign activity, including meetings, mass mailings, candidates' nights and outlet for signs and campaign literature, Carmichael said.

"I especially ask for help from our senior citizens, many of whom are itching to have something constructive to do with all of the spare time at their disposal," the mayor added.

Those wishing to call headquarters for the IQ slate may call 942-0261, 942-0370 and 942-0252, he commented.

Besides Carmichael, the slate is composed of incumbent Councilmen William M. Oakley and Fred J. Block,

City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar, City Treasurer Albert L. Glinski and council candidates

Donald J. Treder, Delores Ristow, Perry C. Gray and Gilbert White, Jr.

Board to close streets

The Van Buren Township Board of Trustees has approved the vacating of Westway Street located north of the Willowrun Expressway between DeWitt Street and Belleville Road.

The block-long Westway Street is an unimproved right-of-way in Seymour and Troester's Belleville Subdivision. The property will revert back to the owner of the adjoining lands who originally owned it.

The township's board action was taken in the form of an official resolution approved at a recent special meeting. The resolution informed the Wayne County Road Commission that the township board had no objections to the vacation of Westway Street.

Other matters presented to the board at its recent session included an audit submitted by Frank Smythe of Post, Smythe, Lutz & Ziel which was reviewed and accepted. Other matters were:

—Approved advertising for bid proposals for the purchase of a water department van for the township's water department.

—Tabled a request to bid from Redford Township on the purchase of a GMC chassis fire rescue truck for further study.

The Lions Club expressed grateful thanks to the local community for its support in this year's raffle.

16 lettermen boost Tiger hopes Emerson: 'We can win'

In his fourth year as Belleville High's head football coach, Keith Emerson, sees 1973 as "the year we can win it."

Emerson is alluding to the tough Suburban 8 Conference football championship, a championship that has eluded the Tigers whose best record in the past decade was a 5-4 won-lost mark posted in 1971.

"We have a good chance to win it," said Emerson who has 16 lettermen back to support his statement, "but everything has to break our way, although I feel we can determine that."

"Our attitude has been excellent and that's one of the keys to a championship season," he said.

GARY VANBUHLER, who took over the starting quarterback job when Lee Stiltner was injured in the first game of the 1972 campaign, apparently has the job for good.

Van Buhler, a 6-foot-0, 160 pound senior, will provide the Tigers with experience in the QB slot, something the local contingent didn't have in previous years and also "versatility."

"We feel that Gary will be exceptional on the options," pointed out Emerson, "his passing has improved greatly over the year and he has the confidence to lead this team."

Stiltner has been successfully converted to the tailback slot and, long with Bruce Ford, a two-year veteran at fullback and backs Gary Adkins and Hubert Russell, the Tigers appear to have the strength in the backfield.

"Compared to last year, we definitely will be more versatile in the backfield, with more people carrying the ball," said Emerson. "And, compared to other years, I feel there is more competition for positions which always makes for a better football team."

THE TIGERS have most of their offensive line intact: Dave Egnor, a 200-pound, 6-foot-1 senior holds down the center position while Art Myers (5-11, 192) and Tom Vacek (6-0, 170) are handling the guard slots. Tackle George Medley, a 6-0, 190-pound

Sports Meridian

Ex-All Area gridders on opposite sides

By TOM MOORADIAN

This is the time of year when all area athletic directors, football coaches, football fans and players come to the aid of The Sports Meridian.

One, two, three, four, five.

That's how many days the boss sez we have to gather in all of the stories for one third annual football special. And that means we are going to need the help of all of you 'out there' to assure those players of something they can be proud of - a special edition for their scrapbook.

Football schedules, sports profiles about former and present players, coaches' comments and a myriad of other pertinent and not so pertinent data will help make up the 1973 Daily Eagle and Associated Newspapers' Special Football Edition.

THAT SPECIAL will be on the streets on Wednesday, Sept. 12, two days before the start of the 1973 high school football campaign. So, if you have some small - or big - contribution, how about contacting the good ole sports editor or his right hand man, Dale Gowing?

Speaking of football, the Big 10 confrontation between Minnesota and the University of Michigan should prove interesting for area fans aside from the usual attraction. The game, to be played on Oct. 27 at the University of Minnesota, will pit former Belleville High star Keith Simons and ex-Garden City West All-American Kirk Lewis.

Simons, a 6-foot-4, 240-pound defensive tackle, started for Coach Cal Stoll last year, breaking into the defensive lineup as a freshman.

As a freshman in 1972, Keith started every game at defensive tackle and performed admirably. The "Belleville giant" who broke the national consecutive record for pins while Wrestling in high school, is undoubtedly a future All-American candidate.

SIMONS IS ALSO an outstanding student, and Williams scholar. (Henry L. Williams Memorial Scholarships are awarded each year to University of Minnesota student-athletes who combine academic and athletic excellence. Athletes must compile a 2.8 grade point average out of a possible 4.0 for one complete year to qualify.)

Lewis, who has blossomed into a 6-foot-3½, 230-pound athlete, has been moved to the offensive tackle spot by Coach Bo Schembechler.

Lewis is a brilliant student who was "straight A" at West Senior High. He's presently sporting a 3.5 average out of a possible 4. And Kirk is a pre-med student.

It is going to be interesting to see these two former All-Area selections go to work on one other.

Oh, come on, sure they'll get in the game.!

Huron's Rossow sees 'better grid record'

A group of 38 varsity gridders, 11 of them returning lettermen, greeted sophomore New Boston Huron head coach Jim Rossow the first day of practice last Monday.

Huron, which lost All-Stater Jamie Hinojosa through graduation, finished 3-5 in the league which bears its name and compiled a 4-5 record during the 1972 campaign.

In his second year as head coach, Rossow figures his team "will be a much better running unit than last year."

"There are a couple of things that are questionable," said Rossow as he puts his Chiefs through two sizzling drills a day, "and one of the questionable is our passing game."

"MUCH WILL depend upon how our quarterback develops," he added, "and, of course, if we can find the right personnel as receivers."

"However, we figure the running attack will be much better than last year."

Tim Hinojosa, Jamie's younger brother, is being groomed as this year's quarterback. A senior and tri-captain of the Chiefs this season, Tim replaces Mario Gracia, who was graduated in June.

"Tim is capable of doing the job and we have all the confidence in the world in him," said Rossow.

Also back in the offensive formation is halfback Dave Durham, one of the bright spots in last year's struggle for respectability in a league that was dominated by Tecumseh.

DURHAM, a 6-foot-3, 195-pound senior, must come through for the Chiefs if that running game is to be realized.

Jim Pidgeon, a 5-foot-11, 165 defensive halfback, Al Dettler, who will go both ways at end (6-foot, 165 pounds), Mick Sobadash, a 6-foot-2, 170-pound senior who is a split end and a linebacker and Jeff Hessler, a senior end, also are among the holdovers from a year ago.

Rosow also has a hard core of veterans in Bill Parent, a senior, 5-foot-10, 180-pound guard, Jake Craanen, also a senior guard (5-foot-10, 180-pounds), Rich VanDecarr, a senior, 6-foot-1, 180-pound center and Bill Grover, a 6-foot-3, 255-pound tackle.

Brad Booth, a center, who is 5-foot-10, 170 pounds, also lettered last year.

THE CHIEFS have the services of Ron Suemnick, who suffered a foot injury that sidelined the outstanding athlete last year.

Suemnick, a senior, will be handling either one of the guard or tackle slots. He's 6-foot-1, 180-pounds.

"I am confident that with these players are going to better our record of a year ago," said Rossow, "and we

Safety Council develops bicycle regulations

A new set of bicycle safety rules has been developed by the National Safety Council to provide a uniform safety guide for bicyclists.

Undertaken originally as a project for the Cub Scouts of America, to be incorporated into their new bicycle safety program, these new safety directions should prove useful to the ever-growing number of bicycle drivers throughout the country, according to a council spokesman.

The new safe bike driving rules are:

1. Obey all applicable traffic regulations, signs, signals and markings.
2. Observe all local ordinances pertaining to bicycles.
3. Keep right: drive with traffic, not against it. Drive single file.
4. Watch out for drain grates, soft shoulders and other road surface hazards.

Be careful of loose sand or gravel, particularly at corners. Watch out for pot holes.

5. Watch out for car doors opening, or for cars pulling into traffic.

6. Don't carry passengers or packages that interfere with

Romulus honors champs

It was an historical occasion last Saturday at the Romulus City Hall, when the eight-team Romulus Ladies Softball League conducted its first annual awards presentation.

Sponsored by the Romulus Jaycees and the Romulus Recreation Department, the league honored city, league and playoff champion Kid Power with trophies, and saluted league runner-up Kel-Joys and playoff runner-up Odd Squad.

Each team chose its Most Valuable Player, with the exception of Kid Power. The champions opted to distribute awards to each player. The MVP's, preceded by their teams, are: Kel-Joys—Cindy Nixon; Odd Squad—Cindy Hood; City Hall Gals—Angie Hicks; Romulus City Diamonds—Jean Hoffman; Ms Fits—Pat Maciejewski; Seekers—Val Frazier; and the Roadrunners—Eunice Curry and Mickey Jordan.

The league also gave special recognition to Marie Debusscher, who provided game equipment and trophies.

Apparently there is a benefit from the soaring costs of gasoline. And there is one area football coach who couldn't mind if the gas stations hiked their prices to $1 per gallon and the auto manufacturers placed $10,000 price tags on their smallest cars.

That coach is Bob Draheim, who is very busy these hot, humid days whipping his Garden City West football contingent into shape for approaching season.

Draheim has noticed things this year that he and his colleagues never dreamed possible in previous seasons.

"You probably have heard numerous complaints from us and other coaches that we were losing good athletes to the car," related Draheim. "Well, what we coaches couldn't do — get the kids out of the cars and back on their feet, economics apparently have accomplished for us.

"There's a 'rebirth of the bike'," continued Draheim, "kids are not driving their cars to practice any more but hopping on their bikes and pedaling their way to school.

"OBVIOUSLY, THE EXERCISE is better for our athletes. That's why I'd like to see the price of gas hit a level that would force all of our young athletes to turn to the bike for their mode of transportation," the West High coach said.

Draheim and his football staff counted 34 bikes in the rack the other day, and it pleases him to no end.

"WE'RE REALLY HAPPY to see the kids get off their bucket seats," added Draheim. "and I'm just wondering how many other area coaches have noticed the bike renaissance."

Gasoline shortage or not, the articulate Draheim offers a convincing story about his team's chances to win the Tri-River Conference title this season. He feels he has as good a shot at the title as any one else.

"But, I remember a couple of years ago I said we were serious contenders and collapsed," he recalled, "then when I thought we didn't stand a chance we came right back and won it."

That's what football and sports are all about: unpredictable.

FANS who have been following the Tri-River Conference circuit shouldn't be too surprised to learn that Dearborn Heights Crestwood has a new head football coach...again...this season.

After the board "fired" Jim Fletcher a couple of years ago during a contractual dispute, Crestwood called upon Bill MacDonald, who fielded some outstanding teams at Detroit Thurston, to handle the job last year.

MacDonald, who was reportedly on a sabbatical leave from the Redford Township school district, hauled his entire Thurston coaching staff over to the Heights in hopes of putting some adrenalin into the sluggish Crestwood football program.

Bill didn't succeed and his decision to take the Crestwood coaching job put him in boiling water with the Michigan Education Association which called the veteran coach on to the carpet.

Anyway, MacDonald is gone. And in his place is one of Fletcher's assistant coaches, Bert Quinta.

Quinta is going to need all the help in the world to improve upon MacDonald's 1-7 won-lost record. In fact, Crestwood has never had a winning football season.

And even the defending Tri-River Conference champ, Southgate, is having coaching problems this year. Bob Mittlestat, the Sabers' veteran coach, has returned to the classroom to work on his masters and the school board dilly-dallied to replace him.

Now with the season just a couple of weeks away, the champs still don't have a head coach. An assistant coach is going through the motions.

And I always thought only local boards waited until the last minute to make key coaching appointments.

Junior high football practice dates set

Romulus Junior High eighth grade football coach Terry Bird announces that practice for the school's eighth and ninth grade grid teams will begin Thursday, Sept. 6.

Both teams will practice each morning from 8-10 a.m. at Romulus Senior High, using all of the high school's facilities. Coach Don Foley will direct the ninth graders. LETTERS HAVE been mailed to students inviting them to participate in the program, however if a student has not received one he may pick it up along with other important football information at the junior high daily from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Players should report the first day with regular gym clothes, Bird said. He added that most of the necessary gear will be provided by the school, with the exception of football shoes.

New bike safety rules

A good rule is "one person, one bike," unless it's a tandem. Use baskets or luggage carriers for packages.

7. Never hitch a ride on a truck or other vehicle.

8. Be extremely careful at intersections, especially when making a left turn.

Most accidents happen at intersections. If traffic is heavy, get off and walk your bike with pedestrian traffic.

9. Use hand signals to indicate turning or stopping. Let the motorist know what you plan to do by giving the appropriate hand signals for turning left or right, or for stopping.

10. Protect yourself at night with the required red reflectors and lights.

Again, state laws vary. Most require a headlight, tail light or red rear reflectors for night cycling. Others require reflective pedals, additional side reflectors or other reflective material. If you are going to drive at night, use maximum protection.

11. Drive a safe bike. Have it inspected to insure good mechanical condition.

Make sure your bike fits you. See to it that brakes, pedals, lights reflectors, shifting mechanisms, sounding devices, tires, spokes, saddle, handlebars, and all nuts and bolts are checked regularly.

12. Drive your bike defensively: watch out for the other guy.

Observe the car in front of you, and the one in front of him. Leave yourself room and time to take defensive action.

DRIVER OF THE YEAR—Marilyn Peterson, 37, school bus driver for the Van Buren Public School District, has won the "Driver of the Year" award for the 1972-73 school year. The award was recently presented by Robert Rudat, manager of the Michigan School Bus Service, Inc., current operator of the school district's bus transportation system. Mrs. Peterson, a school bus driver since 1967, is the mother of eight children and resides at 47048 Lauren Ct., Belleville. The firm is a subsidiary of the National School Bus Service Co., which serves other school districts throughout the country.

Area woman gets driver award

By HENRY CANTIN

A mother of eight children and member of the Van Buren Public School District's transportation department has been awarded the "Driver of the Year" award for the 1972-73 school year.

She is Marilyn Peterson, 37, of 47048 Lauren Ct., Belleville, a school bus driver for the school district since 1967.

THE AWARD PRESENTATION is based on the following criteria: accident free, ambassadorship, attendance and all-around cooperation. Mrs. Peterson's winning of the award will be featured in the publication of the parent company, Rudat said.

Mrs. Peterson's school bus serves Route Nine which embraces Belleville High School, South and North Junior High Schools and Rawsonville Road Elementary School.

Another member of the district's transportation department won honors at the recent school bus rodeo and competitive tests at Eastern Michigan University.

SHE IS GEORGETTA Bricks, 45, of 47119 Lauren Ct., Belleville, a neighbor of Mrs. Peterson.

Mrs. Bricks won the most points among the school bus drivers participating in the rodeo, Rudat said. She has been driving school buses since 1965.

Rudat also announced that four other drivers employed by the company won the overall award at the rodeo.

Belleville man to face pre-trial murder hearing

Gary Stafford, 19, 17161 Sumpter Rd., Belleville, charged with first degree murder in the stabbing death of an Ypsilanti man, will face pre-trial hearing Thursday before Judge Thomas F. Shea of the 14th District Court.

Stafford, held in the Washtenaw County Jail without bond, is accused of killing Steven Stringham, 20, 404 N. Huron St., Ypsilanti, during a fight that police say apparently erupted over a barroom pool game at about 2:15 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 20.

Det. Sgt. William J. Stenning reported that Stringham was stabbed during a brawl at 43 E. Cross St., Ypsilanti, that involved about 30 persons who had been arguing over money for the pool table at a neighborhood bar.

Stenning and Stringham walked away from the scene of the brawl, and shortly after was found covered with blood by a passing motorist. The motorist transported Stringham to the Beyer Memorial Hospital where he died at 3:52 a.m.

Recycling center to close in area

Belleville area's volunteer and privately-operated glass collection center for recycling will cease operations Sept. 1. The glass collection center, operated by women of the United Presbyterian Church, 11900 Belleville Rd., Belleville, has been in operation for the past three years.

Glass collected and deposited at the collection in the parking area of the church grounds was sorted out for delivery to the Owen-Illinois Glass Co. by volunteers from the community.

The glass, sorted by size and color, was taken to the Saginaw facilities of the glass firm by truck.

Mrs. Carroll LoPresto, project chairman, said the closing of the collection center is caused by lack of volunteers for the sorting out process.

Initially, the community-wide glass collection program had adequate unloading and sorting help at the collection center but gradually declined during recent weeks, Mrs. LoPresto said.

As chairman of the project, Mrs. LoPresto issued thanks to all in the community who did participate in the program — especially area youth.

Trio wins honors

New Boston Huron High School's baron twirling trio won first place honors at the annual Thurman's Baton Twirling and Cheerleading Clinic at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

Sharon Kay Bosman, 32129 Prescott St., Romulus; Jeannie Wagner, 19366 Waltz Rd., New Boston; and Mary Kyko, 18904 Hannan Rd., New Boston, won the first place Twirling Pike Flag's plaque.

The clinic is conducted by Mary Evelyn Thurman, internationally known clinic director, teacher and judge.

Official becomes teacher

Robert W. Gray, 45, elementary supervisor of the Van Buren Public School District since the 1961-62 school year, has returned to the classroom.

Gray, who requested classroom teaching will begin the 1973-74 school year as a sixth grade teacher at the Haggerty Road Elementary School.

Gray's duties as elementary supervisor has been taken over by the school district's recently appointed Director of Instruction, Douglas Brown, former assistant principal of Belleville High School.

Crime, drugs top nation's problems

Crime, drugs and inflation are rated as the nation's leading problems by Congressman William D. Ford's constituents in the 15th Congressional District, who also think that Federal spending should be reduced for foreign aid, welfare and defense, and increased for education, health care and senior citizen benefits.

These sentiments were expressed by Western Wayne County residents in Ford's ninth annual questionnaire survey, made in April and May, and tabulated since that time by volunteer workers. The tabulations represent the first 10,000 returns, although the total has since gone well beyond that figure.

FORD SOUGHT his constituents' opinion on six specific issues, and then asked them to rate what they considered to be America's three most important problems, and to list three areas each in which the Federal budget should be decreased and increased.

The results showed the following percentage answers:

—To combat the soaring cost of food, the respondents favored elimination of farm subsidies by 84 to 16 percent; favored permanent price controls by 58 to 42 percent, and opposed consumer boycotts 60 to 40 percent.

—A Federal Health Insurance Program based on the Kennedy-Griffiths Health Security Bill was favored 65 to 35 percent.

—By a margin of 76 to 23 percent, a large majority felt that mail service has worsened under the Postal Service Corporation, and only nine percent felt that it had improved. A majority of 62 percent favored abolishing the Postal Service Corporation and returning to the former post office department under the direct control of the President and Congress.

—Respondents voted overwhelmingly, 92 percent to eight percent, against economic aid to North Vietnam, and 66 to 34 percent against continued economic aid to South Vietnam. Seventy-eight percent opposed continued military aid to South Vietnam.

'The lack of leadership in the White House is becoming painfully obvious.'

—Legislation providing Federal safeguards for pension plans was favored by a 96 to 4 percent margin.

—By a 66 to 34 percent margin, Ford's district voted in favor of "Press Shield" legislation to permit newspaper reporters and other newsgatherers to protect their sources of information.

IN LISTING the nation's three most important problems, 44 percent mentioned crime and drugs, 40 percent named inflation, and 17 percent listed taxes. Government corruption and pollution each drew 14 percent.

Forty-five percent voted to reduce spending for foreign aid, 35 percent for welfare, 32 percent for defense, 24 percent to cut the cost of government, and 17 percent to slash Federal subsidies.

In listing areas in which the Federal budget should be increased, 27 percent favored education, 18 percent named health care, 17 percent senior citizen benefits, 15 percent environmental protection, and 13 percent crime and drug control. Thirteen percent also declared that the Federal budget should not be increased in any areas.

Commenting on the questionnaire results, Ford said that the responses show "how deeply the American people feel about the need to solve our domestic problems."

"Fully 77 percent of the respondents cited foreign aid and defense spending as the logical areas to reduce the Federal budget," he pointed out.

"It is obvious that my constituents see the drug menace and street crime as a joint problem—and a major problem—an analysis I agree with. Inflation is a close second, and has become even worse since my questionnaire was mailed. The Nixon 'game plans' and his on-again, off-again control system have proven ineffective. Our economy has reached a point of chaos and the lack of leadership in the White House is becoming painfully obvious.

"The entire Watergate mess is an undoubted factor," Ford asserted, "since so many of the President's top aides have been fired or forced to resign as a result of the continual revelations of high level corruption."

"IT IS NO wonder that government corruption was ranked fourth among the nation's problems, and this percentage would probably be even higher if the survey were being made today."

Detecting diabetes can prolong life

'It's a sneaky disease when problems accumulate without the victim's being aware.'

Diabetes — is it a scare word for you? Indeed diabetes can be a killer disease. But today the greatest fear should be as much from having it as from the disease itself.

Medical advances have made it possible to control the disease so effectively that most people who have it need not be seriously impaired. Diabetes is found in the ranks of athletes, businessmen, housewives, factory workers, politicians, farmers, growing kids — all living worthwhile productive lives.

Their lives are being prolonged dramatically, as long as they take the extra care necessary to keep diabetes from taking its rapid toll if unchecked.

BUT DIABETES is unchecked in the estimated 2,000,000 people who don't know they have it. These are hidden diabetics whose symptoms are non-existent or so mild they don't realize it.

Government health specialists have tried to spotlight the importance of finding these hidden diabetics not only because of the cost in dollars for medical care, lost man-hours from absenteeism or early death, but also because of the suffering from blindness, kidney and heart trouble caused by diabetes. What is diabetes? While doctors don't know what causes it or how to cure it, they do know a lot about it. They do know that the diabetic's pancreas produces either no insulin or not enough to utilize properly the sugars and starches he eats. This in turn interferes with the body's handling of fats and proteins.

They do know the sugar build-up in the body will lead to serious consequences — poor circulation, heart disease, blindness, infection, kidney failure, high blood pressure, stroke. It's a sneaky disease when these problems can be accumulating without the victim's being aware of it. THERE'S ONLY one way to be sure — that is to have a blood or urine test from your doctor or health clinic.

Some — usually those developing it later in life — have a mild form which can be controlled simply by diet alone; they eat a well-balanced diet in which sugars and starches are restricted. Others can take pills which will stimulate the body's production of insulin. Still others need to take regular insulin injections.

Last year Marian S. learned that she has diabetes after a routine physical examination. True, she'd been extra-tired lately and her eyes had been bothering her but as a school-teacher just turning 50 she didn't consider she had symptoms of anything but her age and some long nights of grading papers.

The diagnosis had special meaning because she had watched her sister live with a severe form of diabetes since she was age three.

Fortunately the use of insulin injections and careful diet had prolonged her life far beyond what it would have been a few years earlier before insulin was discovered. She'd had a normal childhood and married life and still is working at her profession part-time although she has begun to feel some of the debilitating effects that juvenile-onset diabetes inexorably brings.

BUT MARIAN'S case is far different from her sister's. No insulin was even suggested; she took pills for a time but now is able to control her diabetes by diet alone. She has reduced her weight and exercises more. And she's still teaching, full steam ahead.

In many ways Mary is typical of most new cases found each year — women, over 40, diabetic relatives, few overt symptoms such as drowsiness, thirst, frequent urination, excessive appetite, weight loss.

Here are four key questions to ask yourself to see if you could be a hidden diabetic: Are you over 40? Are there any diabetics in your family? Are you overweight? Have you had any babies that weighed more than nine pounds at birth?

Romulus offers lunch program

The Romulus Community School District will again this year offer free and reduced price meals for students unable to pay the full price.

Children from families whose income is at or below the income scale given are eligible for free meals. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but having other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical bills, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or disaster or casualty losses, are urged to apply.

Those wishing to apply, according to Romulus school officials, should fill out the application form that will be sent home along with a letter to the parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office at any school.

THE INFORMATION provided on the application will be held in confidence and used only to determine eligibility of the student.

Application may be made any time during the school year. In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for free or reduced price meals. A family that has such children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals for them should contact the school.

No child will be discriminated against because of his race, sex, color or national origin.

THOMAS M. JANACK, assistant supt. for maintenance and operations, will review the applications, and if a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling, he may contact the hearing officer, Supt. Robert L. McConeghy at the board of education offices, 36540 Grant Rd.

A complete copy of the policy on meals is on file at each school and at the board of education offices where interested persons may review it.

The eligibility scale is as follows:

FAMILY INCOME ELIGIBILITY SCALE

Total Family Size	Scale for Free Meals	Scale for Reduced Meals
1	0-$2740	$2741 - $3280
2	0-$3600	$3601 - $4320

Area school districts to receive more funds

Area school districts stand to gain more than $7 million in state and federal aid this year, according to Sen. William Faust (D-13th District).

This figure represents the amount of money the school districts will receive every two months during this fiscal year. Payments will be made on the first day of August, October, December, February, April and June.

The schools will receive regular state aid as well as federal funds for vocational education, compensatory education, compensatory deprived children and experimental education programs.

THESE FIGURES are estimates, Faust said, and are subject to change because of fluctuation in a district's enrollment or a change in a community's valuation.

Appropriations by school district include the following: Romulus Community Schools will get $324,470 in state aid, $9,220 for experimental programs and $112,612 for vocational education.

VAN BUREN Public Schools will get $407,470 in state aid and $57,771 for vocational education.

It's registration time

All new students who did not attend Van Buren Public Schools last year or did not pre-register for classes last Spring should do so during the week of Aug. 27 through Aug. 31, school officials announced.

Students who are registering must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Schools will be opened for registration during the hours of 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. during the week of Aug. 27.

Van Buren Public Schools open this year on Sept. 4.

Nursery program to open

Applications are being accepted for space in the West Mound United Methodist Church-sponsored pre-school Christian Nursery to be held at the church, 22395 Eureka Rd., Romulus.

Shelby Miller, holder of a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University, will be in charge of the nursery, which sponsors two programs for children aged 2½ to school-age.

The first program is a two-day per week nursery school, for younger children. Only 25 vacancies are made available in the program, and these are nearly filled, according to Mrs. Miller.

The second program runs three days per week, and is for children closer to the age of five.

More vacancies are listed in this program.

Applications for the nursery, which will not require parental participation, as in co-operative nurseries, can be obtained by calling either 287-3022 or 941-8909.

All applications are being processed on a first-come basis.

Cost of the program is $20 per month for the two-day per week program and $26 per month for the three-day per week program.

Chemical Recovery Systems is a factory that takes in wastes and used solvents and oils from the automobile industry and other nearby factories, cleans them up, and sends them back to the original owners ready for use again.

Otherwise the wastes would be dumped and might pollute the environment.

SOMETIMES THE wastes are broken down completely and then sold.

Shagena and his sales manager Dick Johnson have owned the industry in Romulus for nearly two years now. The previous owners left them with a legacy of mismanagement and trouble — and thousands of rusty metal barrels stacked 10 and 12 high outside of the buildings.

clean up the old ones."

SHAGENA ADDED that he hopes Chemical Recovery Systems can become "the away, Johnson explained.

Shagena and Johnson will construct another building addition starting next week to house more equipment.

Presently they have several systems including a filtering and heat system to clean used industrial oil and a film-evaporating system to clean solvents and other chemical liquids.

The two men said they have been laboring under the reputation left by the former owners and the opinions many Cadillac of the industry" in reputation.

DATSUN SAVES
About a gallon of gasoline a day
With the demand for fuel rising faster than the supply, here's one way to help ease your money crisis. According to the United States Bureau of Highway Figures, the national average for gas mileage is about 15.5 miles per gallon. The new Datsun 1200 gets around 30 miles per gallon or over twice the national average. The average car in the U.S. is driven just over 10,000 miles a year, so you can save about a gallon of gas every day by driving a 1200. With gasoline prices going up, it's a considerable saving of another important resource: your money. Drive a Datsun - Now decide.
Like buy a car that doesn't use much. The Volkswagen holds only about 5 pints (not quarts) of oil and 10.4 gallons of gas, full up. You almost never need to add oil and you can expect to get over 20 miles per gallon of regular.
If you're upset about soaring gas and oil prices and haven't been able to get any satisfaction...try your Volkswagen dealer.
